Chief Product Officer, LKQ Europe

Delivering valuable products to LKQ Europe's customers

Ferdinando Imhof has been with LKQ Europe since October 2016, first as Vice President of European Supply Chain, then Chief Procurement Officer, and his most recent role seeing him serve as Chief Product Officer. As Chief Product Officer, Ferdinando Imhof is responsible for strategic product direction, overseeing and leading the purchasing and development of products that deliver value to LKQ Europe and our customers.

” Operating on a global scale as a distribution group requires the right products at the right time, for both the business and our customers.

His previous roles within LKQ Europe have seen him establish the first LKQ European direct procurement and supply chain organizations, implement a 3-year global pan-European supply chain plan, set up the business' European Production & Processing (P&P) Management organization and much more.

Prior to joining LKQ Europe, Ferdinando Imhof spent 20 years gaining automotive experience at pan European spare parts distributor Rhiag Group before it was acquired by LKQ Corporation in 2016, serving both as group functional VP and CEO of companies within the group. During this period, Ferdinando also gained fifteen years experience dealing with leading private equity firms as shareholders (CVC, Alpha, Apax), being involved two times in IPO procedures, and directly participating in several bond issues in the international capital markets.
